

Movies To See Before You Die (1920-1959)

You are all involuntary members of this planet we call Earth; and as members of this specific, crazy country called the United States, there is a culture of movie watching that people will expect of you once you get to college. There are some movies you just NEED to watch to be able to call yourself a movie lover and to make good films. You make good films by watching GREAT films. So here is your assignment...

The Assignment:

1. Watch at least FIVE films from the list in this packet.
2. Complete the Film Viewing Form ONLINE (go to my website) for each film you watch.
3. Excellence points for each film past the fifth (up to 10).
4. If you miss a deadline or receive less than 100% on a film, you may watch an additional movie and fill out a form to replace the less than satisfactory grade.

Two Forms By: 9/15

Two Forms By: 10/4

Final Form By: 10/10

The Details: Over the next 9 weeks, you must watch a minimum of five films from the list I have provided. These are considered essential films for movie lovers and media literate adults. After you watch each film, fill out a film viewing form online. You may either find the film on your own or borrow it from me. To borrow it from me, you must sign it out from my library. You may not keep the film longer than 3 nights (one weekend). If you do, you will get a 0 for that film. When you bring the film back, sign it back in. Sign-outs and sign-ins are completed online with me. If you watch extra films from the list and fill out a form, you will get extra points. Also, you can only watch movies you have NOT seen.

Criteria for Success:

- Student views five films from the list below which he or she has not seen.
- Student goes to markwaltermath.weebly.com and completes a Film Viewing Form for each film (click "Form" at the bottom of the main CAMS page).
- All long-answer questions on the Film Viewing Form are answered using complete sentences and with at least a paragraph of text (five sentences).
- Answers to Film Viewing Form questions contain multiple specific details from the film that indicate that the student watched the entire film.
- All reflective and analytical questions on the Film Viewing Form are answered with specific references to personal reactions or observations and inferences from the film.

Movies To See Before You Die (Foreign Language)

You are all involuntary members of this planet we call Earth; and as members of this specific, crazy country called the United States, there is a culture of movie watching that people will expect of you once you get to college. There are some movies you just NEED to watch to be able to call yourself a movie lover and to understand the cultural history of our country. So here is your assignment...

The Assignment:

1. Watch at least FIVE films from the list in this packet.
2. Complete the Film Viewing Form ONLINE (go to my website) for each film you watch.
3. Excellence points for each film past the fifth (up to 12).
4. If you miss a deadline or receive less than 100% on a film, you may watch an additional movie and fill out a form to replace the less than satisfactory grade.

Three Forms By: 5/11

Final Two Forms By: 6/7

The Details: Over the next 10 weeks, you must watch a minimum of five films from the list I have provided. These are considered essential films for movie lovers and media literate adults. After you watch each film, fill out a film viewing form online. You may either find the film on your own or borrow it from me. To borrow it from me, you must sign it out from my library. You may not keep the film longer than 3 nights (one weekend). If you do, you will get a 0 for that film. When you bring the film back, sign it back in. Sign-outs and sign-ins are completed online. If you watch extra films from the list and fill out a form, you will get extra points. Also, you can only watch movies you have NOT seen.

Criteria for Success:

- Student views five films from the list below which he or she has not seen.
- Student goes to markwaltermath.weebly.com and completes a Film Viewing Form for each film (click "Form" at the bottom of the main CAMS page).
- All long-answer questions on the Film Viewing Form are answered using complete sentences and with at least a paragraph of text (five sentences).
- Answers to Film Viewing Form questions contain multiple specific details from the film that indicate that the student watched the entire film.
- All reflective and analytical questions on the Film Viewing Form are answered with specific references to personal reactions or observations and inferences from the film.
